THE GREATEST ROCK BAND IN THE WORLD

I had the pleasure to see the Rolling Stones on July 19, 2019 at the TIAA stadium in Jax with 60,000 other admiring fans. The Stones executed a flawless, 2-hour performance which included a spectacular set list of songs taking me through over 54 years of being a diehard Rolling Stones fan. I remember with vivid clarity sitting by the juke box at my favorite TGIF watering hole, The Ohio Stater, at The Ohio State University in 1965 when the group released its worldwide hit "I Can't Get No Satisfaction." We played that song over and over and over until we couldn't stand up any more to put our dime in the slot. I had heard their albums prior to the release of that song on January 9, 1965 but that was the one that made me a fan for life.

The band all together even after all these years.

Flash forward to November 30, 1969, when I was in attendance at the Palm Beach Music Festival where the Stones were the closing act for a stellar lineup that included Jefferson Airplane, Sly Stone and Janis Joplin. The inclement weather with temperatures dipping down into the 40's made for a muddy scene reminiscent of the Woodstock Festival which had occurred only 3-1/2 months earlier. I dragged my worn-out body to the front of the stage for the show that started at 4 AM. The Stones rocked out in front of the few fans who could last through the cold and rain. But they certainly put an indelible stamp on my mind about how good a rock band could be.

The Greatest Rock and Roll Band in the World—Continued From Page 1

My next live encounter with the Rolling Stones was on November 27, 1994 at Florida Field in Gainesville. This was the second biggest tour of their careers supporting the "Voodoo Lounge" album. The giant scorpion tail on stage, the towering blow-up characters, and the incredible lights and sound highlighted an over-the-top, 3-hour performance that rocked Gainesville. We somehow worked our way up to the front center of the stage and viewed the show only a few feet away from Mick and the Gang. An epic evening was had by all.

Mick Jagger and Keith Richards rocking out on stage

The recent show in Jacksonville cemented in my mind why I love the Rolling Stones. Here you had Mick Jagger, Keith Richards, Charlie Watts and Ronnie Woods rocking out some 57 years after the formation of the band with every one of the aforementioned an original member of the group with the exception of Woods who joined the group in 1975.

Who would have ever thought that Rock 'n Roll bands would be at the height of their drawing power when all the band members were in their 70's. We all thought Roll 'n Roll was for only for those in their 20's or maybe 30's but after that our favorite artists would have to fade away into oblivion. Not true! And here was the perfect example of the group that stayed the biggest for the longest and proved us all wrong...."Hail Hail Rock 'n Roll" and to my favorite group of all time: The Rolling Stones.

Nikaiya's Chocolate Chip Cookies

Ingredients:

- 1-1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 large egg
- 2 cups of semi-sweet chocolate chips

Directions:

1. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Place the butter in the microwave for one minute. Then mix the butter, brown sugar, and sugar.
2. Place the egg and vanilla extract in the bowl and mix for ten seconds. Then sift the flour, baking soda, and salt into the bowl. After that you mix in the chocolate chips.
3. Place a piece of parchment paper on the cookie pan to prevent stickiness. Then proceed to roll the dough into balls and place them on the pan. Bake 15-10 minutes.
4. Take them out 3 minutes before ready time to let them finish cooking as they cool.

Future Meldon Law Scholar Athlete

Meet Luca! He's the son of Jamie, a Case Manager here at Meldon Law. Luca is in 7th grade and plays forward on his city's little league soccer team. He scored an impressive 18 goals in just the last season alone! Luca is on his way to being a Scholar Athlete in high school.

If you know any students who will be a high school senior in the next academic year, be sure to nominate them for our Scholar Athlete Program. You can send nominations to Cierra Clark (407-485-3344) at WCJB TV-20!
